RAMS VISIT SAN FRANCISCO IN WEEK 9

DE Robert Quinn

The St. Louis Rams make their first trip to the newly-opened Levi's Stadium as they travel to the Bay Area in Week 9 to face the San Francisco 49ers.

The Rams and 49ers have met twice annually since 1950, and Sunday's contest will be the 130th game in the all-time series. San Francisco has a slight 64-62-3 advantage in the series and has won the last three meetings with the Rams. The 49ers won the first meeting this season, a 31-17 decision that came just three weeks ago in St. Louis.

As the Rams attempt to slow San Francisco's high-powered offense, they'll look for Pro Bowl DE Robert Quinn to build on his strong play of late. Quinn had two sacks and a forced fumble last week and has dropped the opposing quarterback three times in his last two games.

BENNY'S SPECIAL EFFORT

RB Benny Cunningham has been a jack of all trades for the Rams this season.

Last week in Kansas City, he returned the opening kickoff 41 yards to set up a St. Louis touchdown. He also caught one pass and gained 27 yards on just four carries.

On the season, Cunningham has 163 rushing yards and is averaging 4.1 yards per carry. He's caught 17 passes for 129 yards and has scored three total touchdowns.
RB Benny Cunningham

In the team's win over Seattle two weeks ago, Cunningham seemingly did it all. In the first quarter, Cunningham returned a kickoff 75 yards to give the Rams the ball at the Seattle 31 yard line. Six plays later, St. Louis scored its first touchdown of the day on a Tre Mason six-yard run.

Later in the game, Cunningham caught a shovel pass from Austin Davis and plowed his way forward for a five-yard touchdown. It marked the third consecutive week that Cunningham has found the end zone.

He saved the best for last. With St. Louis clinging to a two-point lead with 2:55 remaining, Cunningham slipped out of the backfield from his personal protector position in a punt formation. He caught a short pass from P Johnny Hekker and turned it upfield for an 18-yard gain. The first down allowed the Rams to run out the clock and preserve the victory.

With his long kickoff return Sunday, Cunningham is second in the NFL with an 31.0 yard average on returns.

2014 NFL Leaders, Kickoff Return Average	Average
1. Jarvis Landry, MIA	31.3
2. Benny Cunningham, STL	31.0
3. C.J. Spiller, BUF	30.6
4. Knile Davis, KC	28.2

SIR LANCE (SCORES) A LOT

For a third-consecutive week, TE Lance Kendricks found the end zone last week when he caught a one-yard touchdown pass from Austin Davis.

This week in San Francisco, Kendricks looks to become the first Rams with a touchdown catch in four-straight games since Torry Holt accomplished the feat in 2006.

Kendricks caught a four-yard touchdown pass rom Austin Davis with 5:36 remaining in the fourth quarter in the team's Week 7 win over Seattle. The touchdown allowed the Rams to answer after Russell Wilson and company had pulled to within two points at 21-19. Kendricks pushed the St. Louis lead back to nine, 28-19.

TE Lance Kendricks

The third-year tight end also scored in Week 6 when he caught a 22-yard pass from Davis. Kendricks now has 12 career touchdowns, including four this season. He's totalled 16 catches for 128 yards to go along with his four scores in 2014.

Throughout his four seasons in St. Louis, Kendricks has been a reliable target. He finished the 2012 season with 42 receptions for 519 yards and four touchdowns. His 519 receiving yards were at the time the most by a Rams tight end since the team moved to St. Louis in 1995. Teammate Jared Cook surpassed those totals in 2013.

AUSTIN POWERS

Rams QB Austin Davis has found a groove in his first year as an NFL starter.

Davis has passed for 1,680 yards with 10 touchdowns and five interceptions. He's completing 65.2 percent of his passes, a number that would rank fifth in franchise history for a season were it to hold up.

In the team's Week 7 win over Seattle, Davis connected on 85.0 percent (17-of-20), the third best single-game mark in team history (Kurt Warner is first at 86.9). It was the third best mark in a game by any NFL quarterback this season at the time and is now the fifth best.
QB Austin Davis

Davis posted a passer rating of 128.6 against the Seahawks, the highest single-game rating by a Ram since Marc Bulger's 133.3 on November 20, 2005.

In Week 5 in Philadelphia, Davis passed for 375 yards with three touchdowns and no interceptions. It was just the third time in Rams history that a quarterback has reached 375 or more yards with three or more touchdowns and no interceptions. He joined Kurt Warner and Marc Bulger as the only Rams to accomplish the feat.

Davis' Week 5 performance was his second-consecutive outing in which he threw for 300 yards and three scores, which made him the first Ram to post back-to-back games of 300 or more yards and three touchdowns since Kurt Warner in 2001.

Davis has been particularly strong on third down, where his passer rating of 120.9 on the down is the fifth highest in the NFL. Of his 10 touchdown passes, seven have come on third down (tied for third most in the NFL) and he's completing 63.9 percent of his passes on the most crucial down.

Davis made his first NFL start in Week 2 at Tampa Bay and was nearly flawless in leading St. Louis to victory. Davis engineered five scoring drives, including one that saw the Rams start from their own 9-yard line before moving the ball 71 yards on 12 plays to set up Greg Zuerlein's game-winning field goal.

Davis's story is a fascinating one. After he was released by the Rams last September, he spent the early part of the season as a volunteer coach at a St. Louis private high school. He rejoined the Rams following Sam Bradford's injury in October but did not see the field until he relieved Shaun Hill in the 2014 opener.

BIG CATCH BRITT

The Rams didn't make a ton of moves in veteran free agency this spring, but did add one player who's provided some big plays at the wide receiver position.

Kenny Britt's sixth NFL season is his first in St. Louis. He spent his first five professional campaigns with the Tennessee Titans, where he played three seasons under Rams Head Coach Jeff Fisher.

WR Kenny Britt

In Week 5 in Philadelphia, Britt scored his first touchdown as a Ram as he caught three passes for 68 yards while helping St. Louis post 466 total yards. For his career, Britt averages 15.6 yards per catch. He had a 43-yard reception last week that helped set up a Rams touchdown.

In addition to what he's brought on the field, Britt's veteran presence has been a welcomed one to the young receiver group. His experience is evident as his career totals are significantly higher than the other five members of the team's receiving group.

Career Totals, Current Rams Receivers

Player	Rec.	Yards	Yards/Rec.	TDs
K. Britt	173	2,699	15.6	20
C. Givens	82	1,359	16.5	3
B. Quick	54	833	15.4	7

S. Bailey	21	279	13.3	0

WAR RAM EAGLE

Greg Robinson, the second overall pick in May's draft, has started each of the last three games at left guard, and it's likely that this week, he'll move to left tackle, the position which he was drafted to secure for the long term.

With Jake Long lost for the season, Robinson will move over to the spot at which he earned all SEC honors a year ago.

With Robinson at left guard in Week 7, the Rams' offensive line had their best day of the season. St. Louis rushed for 102 yards against the defending Super Bowl champion Seahawks and held Seattle's vaunted defense without a sack en route to a Rams victory.

OL Greg Robinson

Robinson made his first NFL start in Week 6 against San Francisco and coaches gave him positive reviews after lining up against 49ers Pro Bowl DT Justin Smith throughout the evening. The Rams averaged nearly four yards per carry in Robinson's first start.

Last fall, Auburn literally ran its way to an SEC championship and appearance in the national title game. As a team, the Tigers averaged an NCAA-best 328.3 yards per game on the ground.

Robinson and Auburn/Rams teammate Tre Mason were at the heart of that attack. In 14 games last season, coaches credited Robinson with 130 "knockdown" blocks, an average of more than nine per game as Auburn sparred with some of the best defenses in the country. Robinson was named First-Team All-SEC and was a Second-Team All-American by the Associated Press.

WHAT'S COOK-IN'?

Since arriving in St. Louis last spring, TE Jared Cook has been a reliable target for Rams quarterbacks.

Cook has caught at least one pass in all 23 games he's been a member of the Rams. He's recorded a reception in each of his last 39 games he's appeared in, dating back to his time in Tennessee.

With 27 receptions on the season, Cook leads the Rams in the category.

TE Jared Cook

In Week 3, Cook caught seven passes for 75 yards, which tied his highest single-game receptions total since joining the Rams. He led the Rams with 74 yards in the team's Week 7 win over Seattle.

In his first year in St. Louis, Cook set a new record for most receiving yards in a season by a Rams tight end. Cook led the Rams in both receptions (51) and receiving yards (671) in 2013. Teammate Lance Kendricks set the previous mark for St. Louis tight ends last year with 519 yards. Cook bested that number and then topped the all-time franchise record held by Mike Barber (657 in 1983).

In his Rams debut, Cook caught seven passes for 141 yards and two touchdowns in the team's Week 1 win. His 141 yards are the most by a tight end in a single game in franchise history. Cook broke a record previously held by Pete Holohan, who had 126 yards on Dec. 11, 1988 against Atlanta.

Cook's Week 1 performance was his second-highest single-game total of his career. He had 169 in a 2011 game against Jacksonville. Cook's 169 yards are a Titans single-game record for a tight end as well.

WAR RAM EAGLE, II

RB Tre Mason didn't make his NFL debut until Week 6, but, he's done his best to make up for lost time.

Mason is averaging 5.2 yards per carry this season - 157 yards on 30 attempts. In the Rams' Week 7 win over Seattle, Mason rushed 18 times for 85 yards, including a 28-yard run which was the team's longest of the season. Mason got the Rams on the board in the first quarter when he scored on a six-yard run. It was Mason's first career touchdown.

RB Tre Mason

A week earlier, Mason carried five times for 40 yards in his first NFL action and caught a 12-yard pass. Through two games, Mason has 125 rushing yards on just 23 carries, an impressive 5.4 yards per carry.

Mason joined the Rams in May when St. Louis selected him in the third round. As a junior at Auburn, he was the SEC's leading rusher. Mason finished fifth in the nation with 1,816 rushing yards, and his 23 rushing touchdowns were tied for third most in the country. Mason was the SEC Offensive Player of the Year, was named First-Team All-SEC and was a finalist for the Heisman Trophy.

RUSHING ROBERT

Prior to the Rams' Week 7 win over Seattle, DE Robert Quinn used the analogy that it only takes a snowflake to start an avalanche, referring to his hopes that the Rams would get their pass rush going one sack at a time.

Quinn recorded his first sack of the season that week, and he added two more last week against Kansas City. He hopes to keep the ball rolling as the Rams travel to San Francisco.

Quinn has developed into one of the NFL's top defenders. Along with his three sacks, coaches have credited the 2012 first-round pick with nine QB pressures and 11 QB hits through seven games. He's also tallied 10 tackles for loss.

Quinn is looking to build off his breakout season of 2013 that saw him post one of the best seasons by a Rams defender in team history.

Quinn's 19.0 sacks were second best in the NFL a year ago, just a half sack off of league leader Robert Mathis (19.5). Quinn also finished second to Mathis in forced fumbles, as Quinn had seven to Mathis' eight.

His 19.0 sacks set a new franchise record, topping Kevin Carter's 17.0 in 1999. Quinn had at least one sack in 11 of 16 games this season, and he had five multi-sack games, including three contests in which he recorded 3.0 sacks.

Coaches credited Quinn with 36 pressures and 33 hits on the season. Two of his forced fumbles resulted in touchdowns - his own 31-yard return vs. Chicago and a 45-yard return by Chris Long in a win over Indianapolis.

In addition to his pass-rushing prowess, Quinn improved his play against the run in 2013. Coaches credited Quinn with 18 tackles for loss, the most among all Rams.

BEST IN CLASS

For teams in need of impact pass rushers, the 2011 NFL Draft was certainly the place to find one.

In the top 16 picks, there were seven "front seven" players selected. Six of them have at least 25 career sacks, and five of them have at least 30.

With the 14th pick, the Rams were fortunate to snag DE Robert Quinn, who boasts 37.5 career sacks. Quinn came off the board after Von Miller (44 sacks), J.J. Watt (43.5) and Aldon Smith (42), and each player has made a name for himself.

DE Robert Quinn

Quinn certainly stood out among his peers in 2013 as he led the NFC with 19.0 sacks. Since the start of the 2012 season, only Watt has more sacks than Quinn.

*2011 First Round Pick

LUCKY NUMBER 13

DT Aaron Donald made his mark on college football for finding his way into the opposing backfield. His NFL career is off to a strong start in that regard as well.

Donald made his third career start in Week 8 and recorded two tackles for loss to give him a team-high 11 on the season. He also notched his first career forced fumble last week. Through seven games, Donald has 2.0 sacks, 12 QB pressures and five QB hits. He had five pressures in the team's Week 7 win over Seattle.

The Rams felt fortunate to land Donald with the 13th pick in May's draft. As a senior in 2013, Donald received a host of honors. In addition to being named

DT Aaron Donald

First-Team All-American and First-Team All-ACC, Donald was the Chuck Bednarik Award and Bronco Nagurski Awards, both of which honor the national defensive player of the year in college football.

Donald also won the Outland Trophy, which goes to college football's top interior lineman, and the Lombardi Award, which recognizes the country's top player among college defensive linemen and linebackers.

Last season, Donald gave opposing offensive linemen fits. He recorded 28.5 tackles for loss, including 11.0 sacks. His tackle for loss total led all college defenders last year.

BROCKERS BRINGING IT

The Rams finished ninth in the NFL in run defense in 2013, and DT Michael Brockers was a key factor in that ranking.

Brockers has 22 tackles in seven games this season. A year ago, he led all Rams defensive linemen with 75 tackles. He recorded 5.5 sacks and added 13 quarterback pressures and 15 quarterback hits. In addition, coaches credited Brockers with eight tackles for loss.

As a rookie in 2012, Brockers was named to the Pro Football Writers of America/ Pro Football Weekly All-Rookie team.

DT Michael Brockers

In 54 career games, Brockers has 9.5 sacks, which ranks among the best in comparison with the defensive linemen drafted in the first round in 2012.

MAN IN THE MIDDLE

If you want to find Rams MLB James Laurinaitis on the football field, one can often simply follow the ball because the fifth-year pro seems to always be around it.

Laurinaitis leads the Rams with 74 tackles on the season after posting 11 vs. Kansas City.

A captain on the Rams defense, Laurinaitis finished the 2013 season with 144 stops, his fifth 100-tackle season in as many years in the NFL. His toughness and leadership were key to a Rams defense that finished in the top 10 against the run for the first time since 2001.

LB James Laurinaitis

Laurinaitis has proven to be a valuable defender against both the run and the pass. He recorded a career-high 3.5 sacks last year and six tackles for loss. He also posted two interceptions and eight pass breakups. Laurinaitis recovered two fumbles as well.

Since 2009, only three linebackers - DeAndre Levy, Paul Posluszny and Sean Lee - have more interceptions than Laurinaitis' nine. Also since 2009, the year the Rams made Laurinaitis a second-round pick, he's the only player in the NFL with 12 or more sacks and nine or more interceptions.

Laurinaitis now has 807 career tackles, and he's closing in on Hall of Famer Merlin Olsen, the franchise's all-time leading tackler.

Most Tackles, Rams History	Tackles
1. Merlin Olsen, 1962-76	915
2. Jack Reynolds, 1970-80	897
3. Deacon Jones, 1961-71	896
-- James Laurinaitis, 2009-present	807

BULLDOG 'BACKER

As a rookie, Alec Ogletree led the Rams in tackles and provided St. Louis with a playmaking presence as he led the team with 155 tackles.

"Tree" has filled up the stat sheet in 2014 as well. He posted 11 tackles against Kansas City to give him 69 on the season, second most among Rams.

In Philadelphia, Ogletree also delivered his second forced fumble in as many weeks. It was Ogletree's eighth career forced fumble, which is tied for most among all NFL defenders since the start of last season.

LB Alec Ogletree

Ogletree stepped into the Rams' starting lineup from the get go as a rookie and he's started all 23 games of his professional career. In addition to leading the Rams in tackles, he had six forced fumbles as a rookie, third most in the NFL.

RETURN TO SENDER

Rams CB Janoris Jenkins has a knack for finding the end zone. In fact, no defender in football has found it more since Jenkins entered the NFL.

In Week 3 against Dallas, Jenkins intercepted Tony Romo and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown. It was Jenkins' fourth interception returned to the end zone since he entered the NFL as a second-round draft pick in 2012.

As a rookie, Jenkins recovered a CB Janoris Jenkins
fumble in the end zone in an overtime win over San Francisco. That gives Jenkins five total defensive touchdowns during his two plus seasons in the NFL, which is the most defensive scores by any player during that time frame.

Most Defensive Touchdowns since 2012	TDs
1. Janoris Jenkins, STL	5
2. Captain Munnerlyn, CAR/MIN	4
3. Four Others Tied	3

Although he's in just his third season, Jenkins needs to find the end zone just once more following an interception to tie the team's all-time record in the category. Ed Meador (1959-70) and LeRoy Irvin (1980-89) each had five career interception returns for touchdowns. Jenkins has six total interceptions in his career.

In 2012, Jenkins turned in one of the best seasons by a rookie corner in NFL history. With three interceptions returned for touchdowns in 2012, Jenkins tied the NFL rookie record in the category. He shares the mark with Hall of Famers Ronnie Lott and Lem Barney.

Jenkins' six career interceptions puts him among the best cornerbacks in his draft class when it comes to finding the football.

BLOCK PARTY

S T.J. McDonald has been a big part of the defense since his arrival as a third round pick in 2013. Through seven games, he's third among Rams with 64 tackles. McDonald has been on the field for every Rams defensive snap this season.

Earlier this season, it was McDonald's play on special teams that proved to be the difference the team's first win.

S T.J. McDonald lays out to block a punt earlier this season against Tampa Bay. McDonald has been a key asset on both defense and special teams this season.

McDonald blocked both a punt and a field goal in the team's win in Tampa Bay in Week 2. As a team, the Rams hadn't blocked a punt and field goal in the same game since December of 1979. Sunday's pair were the first blocks of McDonald's career.

Following the blocked punt, the Rams kicked a field goal of their own. The blocked field goal took potential points off the board for Tampa Bay and led to a field goal drive for the Rams, meaning McDonald's two big special teams plays resulted in at least a nine-point swing in what resulted in a two-point game.

GREG THE LEG

Rams K Greg "The Leg" Zuerlein opened his third NFL season by connecting on eight of his first nine field goal attempts and looks to get things back on track this week.

K Greg Zuerlein

Zuerlein was a perfect 4-for-4 on field goals in the team's win against the Buccaneers, including a 38-yarder with 38 seconds left that gave the Rams a 19-17 victory.

Week 2 was the third time in his first 34 career games that Zuerlein made four field goals, and it was the fifth time he's made a fourth quarter/overtime kick to tie or give the Rams a lead.

In Week 1 against Minnesota, he connected on a 56-yard field goal in the third quarter to give him nine career kicks from 50 yards or more.

Zuerlein's nine field goals from 50-plus yards places him third on the team's all-time list. He's made four of the five longest kicks in team history.

The third-year kicker is also the second-most accurate player in team history when it comes to field goals as he's made 81.4 percent of his kicks (57-of-70).

Last season, Zuerlein made 12 consecutive field goal attempts to close the year. He was perfect the last seven weeks and finished 26-of-28 on field goals in 2013.

As a rookie, Zuerlein made seven field goals from 50 yards or more. In a win over San Francisco, he broke the franchise record for 50+ yard field goals in a season. He also kicked the longest field goal by a rookie in league history (60 yds.) and became the first kicker in league history to make a 50-plus and 60-plus yard field goal in the same game.

HE'S A WINNER

Rams Head Coach Jeff Fisher has won 158 regular season games during his 18-plus seasons as an NFL head coach.

Head Coach Jeff Fisher

Fisher is among the winningest head coaches of his era. Among active head coaches, Fisher is third in career wins, trailing only Bill Belichick and Tom Coughlin.

In his first two seasons in St. Louis, the Rams won 14 games after the team combined for 15 wins in the previous five years.

With the team's Week 7 win over Seattle, Fisher tied Hall of Famer Bud Grant for 15th place in NFL history in regular season victories.

JOHNNY ON THE SPOT

Whether it's with his arm or his leg, Rams P Johnny Hekker is one of the NFL's most dangerous special teams weapons.

P Johnny Hekker

Last week against Kansas City, Hekker posted a net average of 46.2 yards on six punts. It was the 11th time in 38 career games that Hekker's recorded a net average of 45.0 yards or more.

Late in the fourth quarter of the Rams' Week 7 contest, the former high school quarterback was called upon to throw on a fake from the Rams' 18 yard line. He executed to perfection and St. Louis was able to run out the clock to preserve the victory.

In three NFL seasons, Hekker is 4-of-5 passing on fakes, including a touchdown pass on a fake field goal as a rookie in 2012.

Hekker earned both Pro Bowl and All-Pro honors in 2013 after he recorded the highest single-season net average (44.2) in NFL history. His 46.3 gross average was 10th in the league and was the fourth best single-season total in Rams history.

Opponents averaged just 2.6 yards per return against the Rams last season, the best total in the NFL this season. He had just four touchbacks in 78 punts and placed 19 inside the opponents' 20-yard line.

'THE MOUNTAINEER'

Prior to the Rams' Week 7 win over Seattle, WR Stedman Bailey had never fielded a punt in a football game at any level - high school, college or the NFL.

WR Stedman Bailey

Bailey made the most of his first opportunity in the return game as a he was the benefactor of a little trickery by the St. Louis coaches.

In the second quarter of the team's Week 7 win, Rams PR Tavon Austin pretended to track a punt down the left sideline while the Rams coverage team raced towards Austin in attempt to set up a return.

In actuality, Seattle had punted the ball to the St. Louis right. Bailey fielded the punt over his shoulder, turned and raced 90 yards for a touchdown. The play was the longest punt return in the NFL this season and is tied for the third longest in Rams history.

Rams coaches named the play "The Mountaineer" because it centered around Bailey and Austin, both of whom played at the University of West Virginia. Bailey was named NFC Special Teams Player of the Week following his 90-yard return.

*NFL Record

A GOOD START

The Rams have been among the NFL's best out early in games this season.

Last week, QB Austin Davis tossed a one-yard touchdown pass to TE Lance Kendricks on the team's first posession of the game. It marked the fourth time this season the Rams have scored a touchdown on their opening drive. Among NFL teams, only Green Bay has scored as many times on their first possession of the game. The Packers have accomplished the feat in eight games while the Rams have done so in seven.

The Rams and Packers are tied for the NFL lead when it comes to points on a team's first possession with 28 each.

Offensive Coordinator Brian Schottenheimer

St. Louis faces San Francisco this week, and the Rams opened their Week 6 contest with an early touchdown as well. In that game, RB Benny Cunningham's one-yard touchdown run capped an 11-play, 80-yard drive on the Rams' first possession of the game.

HARKEY PITCHES A GEM

Rams TE Cory Harkey is a jack of all trades for the Rams offense. He can regularly be found in the St. Louis backfield as a fullback or on the line of scrimmage as a tight end.

Nicknamed "Harkules" by his teammates as a nod to his toughness, Harkey is one of the Rams' emotional leaders.

Harkey's performance as a blocker was key to the Rams' ability to run the ball. He showed incredible toughness in Week 2 at Tampa Bay as well. After absorbing and crushing hit from Bucs S Dashon Goldson, Harkey returned to the game just moments later and was a key part of the game winning drive. After the game, it was revealed that Harkey suffered a sprained MCL.

TE Cory Harkey

Harkey, who joined the Rams as an undrafted rookie free agent in 2012, is the son of former Major League pitcher Mike Harkey. His father is now the pitching coach of the Arizona Diamondbacks. When the younger Harkey scored against the Saints in Week 15 of last season, he celebrated by simulating a full pitcher's windup before spiking the ball into the turf. The celebration was a nod to his father, the former Cub and Dodger right hander.
POSITIVE GAINES

CB E.J. Gaines might very well turn out to be one of the steals of the 2014 Draft.

The Rams kept Gaines in his home state when they selected him in the sixth round. Gaines started each of his first seven NFL games.

Last week, Gaines was credited with a career-high 11 tackles, including one for loss. He leads the team with five pass breakups and he's been on the field for 96 percent of the Rams' defensive snaps this season.

CB E.J. Gaines

In Week 5, while defending fellow Mizzou Tiger Jeremy Maclin on a deep ball, Gaines came away with his first career interception. He also recovered a fumble earlier in the game.

Gaines was joined in the defensive backfield last week by fellow rookie Marcus Roberson, who made his first career start, and Lamarcus Joyner, the team's second-round pick who has manned the nickel position throughout the season.

Gaines has 42 total tackles on the season. He was a First-Team All-SEC performer at Missouri in 2013 after intercepting five passes, second most in the conference. He previously earned First-Team All-Big XII honors as a sophomore before Mizzou moved conferences.

TAVON AWESOME

Whether it's throwing it to him, handing it to him, or forcing the opponent to punt it to him, the Rams find ways to get the ball in the hands of Tavon Austin.

Last week against Kansas City, Austin had two receptions and two rushes. On the season, he's caught 14 passes and carried the ball 15 times.

Austin finished his first NFL campaign with 40 catches in 13 games and scored six total touchdowns - four receiving, one rushing and one via punt return.

WR Tavon Austin

On the third play of the Rams' Week 12 win over Chicago, Austin took a pitch from QB Kellen Clemens, pivoted to reverse field and raced 65-yards for a touchdown. He also had a 56-yard run against Arizona that set up a Zac Stacy touchdown.

In the process, Austin became the first player in NFL history with a 95-yard punt return for touchdown, 80-yard touchdown reception and 65-yard rushing score in the same season.

In Week 10 in Indianapolis, Austin became just the third rookie in NFL history to score three touchdowns of 55 yards or more in a game.

Austin caught two passes - a 57-yard bomb for a touchdown and a short crossing pattern that resulted in an 81-yard touchdown. He also returned a punt 98 yards for a score.

He became the first player in NFL history to return a punt 95 yards for a touchdown and have a 55-yard touchdown catch. With 314 all-purpose yards, Austin turned in the second-best single-game performance in team history.

ST. LOUIS RAMS

GAME SUMMARIES

Weather: Indoors - Attendance: 55,919 - Time: 12:00 p.m.

The St. Louis Rams fell to the Minnesota Vikings, 34-6, in their 43rd all-time meeting. Minnesota got on the board first on the game's opening drive on a 52-yard field goal by Blair Walsh. The Rams' defense held the Vikings scoreless through the remainder of the first quarter. Meanwhile, QB Shaun Hill completed 6 of his first 7 passes during the first quarter, including a 23-yarder to WR Brian Quick on the Rams' first offensive drive. The Rams ended that drive with a punt and had an opportunity to score points on their second drive of the day, but K Greg Zuerlein's 50-yard field goal attempt sailed left. Atop the second quarter, Walsh converted his second field goal of the day from 46 yards out, giving the Vikings a 6-0 lead over the Rams. Both teams exchanged punts for the remainder of the quarter. With 1:13 remaining in the half, Hill's pass that was intended for TE Jared Cook was intercepted at the St. Louis 19-yard line. The Vikings took advantage of the short field and found the end zone on an 8-yard pass from QB Matt Cassel to WR Greg Jennings. The four-play drive of 35 yards extended their lead to 13 points at the close of the half. Austin Davis started in place of Hill at quarterback for the second half due to an injury that Hill suffered earlier in the game. On his first NFL snap of his career, Davis completed a 10-yard pass to Cook and four plays later, he connected with Cook again for a 26-yard completion. The drive ended in a 56-yard field goal by Zuerlein. The kick tied his own record for fourth longest in team history. He previously kicked a 56-yarder at Chicago during his rookie season (9/23/12). Both teams were forced to punt in the subsequent two drives. After which, the Vikings scored on a 1-play drive in which WR Cordarrelle Patterson lined up in the backfield and ran the ball 67 yards for the score. The Vikings found the end zone again with 6:35 left in the game on a 7-yard pass to TE Kyle Rudolph, which capped a 9-play drive of 70 yards. The Rams' subsequent drive ended on an interception that was returned 81 yards for a touchdown by S Harrison Smith, giving the Vikings the 34-3 lead. With 1:36 remaining, Zuerlein converted a 46-yard field goal, for the final score of the game. Amidst the loss, Quick caught a team-leading seven passes for 99 yards, setting a personal best in receptions and receiving yards. In his NFL debut, Davis completed 16 of 23 passes for 192 yards.

ST. LOUIS 19, TAMPA BAY 17
September 14, 2014 - Raymond James Stadium - Tampa, Fla.

Weather: Cloudy, 88° - Attendance: 59,923 - Time: 3:05 p.m.

For the first time since 2001, the St. Louis Rams won their road opener, defeating the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, 19-17. QB Austin Davis made his first career start and completed 22 passes for 235 yards and a 99.1 quarterback rating. Davis led the Rams to their first touchdown of the season following Tampa Bay's 7-0 score in the game's opening drive. The Rams' game-tying drive featured 41 rushing yards, including an 18-yard run by WR Tavon Austin and a 2-yard scoring rush from second-year back Zac Stacy. In another game of firsts, S Rodney McLeod snagged the team's first interception of the year at the St. Louis 9-yard line. At 4:04 p.m. (CT) the game was suspended due to lighting. Following the 51-minute delay, the Rams found themselves up 10-7 with 0:39 seconds left in the half as a result of a blocked punt by S T.J. McDonald and a 36-yard field goal on the part of K Greg Zuerlein. Tampa Bay responded atop the third quarter with McCown's second rushing touchdown that stemmed from a lost fumble by Stacy, giving the Bucs a 14-10 lead. A 35-yard field goal by Zuerlein reeled the Rams closer within 1. On the first play of the fourth quarter, McDonald blocked his second kick, a 24-yard field goal try, which was returned by LB Ray Ray Armstrong 20 yards. The play translated into points, as Zuerlein made his third field goal on a 46-yard kick. The teams exchanged the lead for the fourth time of the game after a 36-yard field goal that put the Bucs back up, 17-16. Starting with 5:08 on the clock, Davis led the Rams to a game-winning drive, completing 4-of-6 passes – including a 27-yard grab by WR Austin Pettis – for 64 yards, setting up Zuerlein's 38-yard field goal. Left with 0:38, Tampa Bay opened their final series with a 19-yard completion and spiked the ball with 0:20 to stop the clock. On the final play, McCown completed a 29-yard pass to Bucs WR Mike Evans. Evans was injured on the play, and Tampa Bay had no timeouts remaining, which resulted in a 10-second runoff. There was only eight seconds on the clock at the time of the injury and left the Rams with the 19-17 win and 14-8 advantage in the series. For the second consecutive game, WR Brian Quick led the team in receptions with seven, while WR Kenny Britt recorded his first reception as a Ram. Defensively, CB E.J. Gaines recorded his first NFL sack, splitting a takedown of McCown with DE Eugene Sims. Meanwhile, DE William Hayes notched his first start as a Ram, starting in place of the injured Chris Long. With the win, Rams Head Coach Jeff Fisher has 157 regular season wins, leaving him one shy of tying Tom Coughlin of the New York Giants for second-most among active head coaches.

ST. LOUIS 31, DALLAS 34
September 21, 2014 - Edward Jones Dome - St. Louis, Mo.

Weather: Indoors - Attendance: 58,739 - Time: 12:00 p.m.

For the first time in 2014, the St. Louis Rams generated scoring drives on their opening two possessions. Meanwhile, the defense forced two turnovers and a Dallas punt on their first three series. The result was a 21-0 lead, the Rams' largest of the season. On the Rams' first play from scrimmage, Zac Stacy set the tone with a 12-yard run. Two plays later, undrafted rookie Trey Watts registered his first NFL carry. Watts finished the game with 24 yards, helping the Rams tab their second-consecutive game of 100 or more rushing yards. QB Austin Davis completed 6-of-7 passes for 40 yards in that opening drive. His seventh throw resulted in his first NFL touchdown pass, a 1-yard completion to TE Lance Kendricks. The catch was also Kendricks' first touchdown of the season and ninth of his career. On third-and-4 in Dallas' ensuing drive, LB Alec Ogletree forced his first fumble of the season, which was recovered by S Cody Davis – his first career fumble recovery – and returned one yard to the St. Louis 35-yard line. The Rams' second scoring drive took 10 fewer plays than their first and concluded with a 51-yard touchdown pass to WR Brian Quick, his first of the season, and was the Rams' longest offensive play of the season. Armed with a 14-0 lead, the defense got in on the action as CB Janoris Jenkins intercepted a Tony Romo pass intended for WR Dez Bryant and returned it 25 yards for his fifth career touchdown. His last interception returned for a touchdown occurred on Dec. 23, 2012. Since entering the league in 2012, Jenkins has the most defensive touchdowns in the NFL – four of which came during his rookie season. An accumulation of penalties and a lost fumble by the Rams helped Dallas score a touchdown and a 29-yard field goal following Jenkins' score. By the close of the quarter, the Rams' lead diminished to 11 points with a halftime score of 21-10. Upon returning to the field, Dallas reached the end zone on a four-play drive of 83 yards, which was highlighted by a 68-yard catch by Bryant. Dallas nailed a 40-yard field goal on their ensuing possession, bringing them within one point of the Rams. The Rams responded with a field goal of their own, a 28-yarder from K Greg Zuerlein, and extended their lead, 24-20. Dallas pushed ahead for the first time of the game on the next series. A 33-yard defensive pass interference by Jenkins put Dallas on the St. Louis 20-yard line and two plays later, Terrance Williams scored on a 12-yard grab. On the Rams' first play from scrimmage following the Dallas touchdown, Davis intended for Stacy was intercepted and returned 25 yards for a touchdown. Behind by 10 points, the Rams put together an 11-play, 80-yard drive that ended in a 4-yard touchdown catch by WR Austin Pettis with 2:36 left in regulation. The defense forced a Dallas punt, giving the Rams offense 1:58 to attempt a score. Following an incomplete pass and two short tosses for 12 yards, Davis threw his second interception of the day, giving Dallas the 34-31 victory.

ST. LOUIS 28, PHILADELPHIA 34
October 5, 2014 - Lincoln Financial Field - Philadelphia, Pa.

Weather: Sunny, 59° - Attendance: 69,596 - Time: 12:02 p.m.

Despite amassing a season-high 466 total yards on offense, the Rams came up short against the Philadelphia Eagles, losing 34-28. The Eagles jumped to a 13-0 lead in the first quarter following a blocked Johnny Hekker punt, the first surrendered in his three-year career, on the first drive of the game and two field goals in Philadelphia's subsequent possessions. On the Eagles' first drive of the second quarter, LB Alec Ogletree forced his eighth career fumble and first of the season, which was recovered by rookie CB E.J. Gaines on the Philadelphia 19-yard line. Gaines showed up again on the next defensive series, intercepting Nick Foles with 10:02 remaining in the half. The play marked his first career interception and led to the Rams' first touchdown on the day, an 8-yard pass from QB Austin Davis to WR Brian Quick. Philadelphia responded at the end of the quarter with an 11-play, 80-yard scoring drive that ended in a 9-yard touchdown pass to WR Riley Cooper. On the Rams' first play of the new half, Davis was sacked at the St. Louis 5-yard line and fumbled the ball, which was recovered by Eagles DL Cedric Thornton in the end zone. With 2:15 remaining in the third quarter, the Eagles extended their lead to 34-7 following a 24-yard touchdown pass. Starting with the ball on their own 21 with 2:10 left in the third, the Rams scored 21 unanswered points. Davis completed 3-of-3 passes and added a 12-yard scramble to set up RB Benny Cunningham's 14-yard touchdown run at the end of the third quarter. A Foles fumble on the ensuing drive was recovered by DT Michael Brockers at the St. Louis 38 and led to the Davis' second touchdown pass – a 30-yarder to WR Kenny Britt, his first touchdown as a Ram. Two drives later, Davis connected with Quick for another touchdown with 4:41 left in regulation. The defense held the Eagles scoreless and forced a punt, which was downed at the St. Louis 7-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Davis hit Quick for a 43-yard gain. A series of three incomplete passes ended the drive and sealed the win for the Eagles.

ST. LOUIS 14, SAN FRANCISCO 31
October 13, 2014 - Edward Jones Dome - St. Louis, Mo.

Weather: Indoors - Attendance: 56,851 - Time: 7:30 p.m.

After getting off to a fast start against their division rivals, the Rams' saw a first-quarter lead dwindle into a 31-17 loss. The offense orchestrated an 11-play, 80-yard touchdown drive off the opening kickoff while donning 1999 throwback jerseys in honor of the 15th Anniversary of St. Louis' Super Bowl XXXIV win. On the third play of the drive, QB Austin Davis connected with TE Jared Cook on a 39-yard pass play. WR Tavon Austin added two carries for 10 yards to help push the Rams to the San Francisco 49. Rookie RB Tre Mason saw action in his first NFL game while his former college teammate and Rams first-round draft pick Greg Robinson made his first career start. Mason's first career catch came on first-and-10 and went for 12 yards. Four plays later, fellow running back Benny Cunningham scored on a 1-yard rush. The touchdown was his second in as many games. Also making his first NFL start was DT Aaron Donald – the Rams' second pick of the first round. Donald led the defensive line in tackles, alongside DE Euguene Sims, with seven. On the team's second defensive series, S Rodney McLeod forced his first fumble of the season. The ball was recovered by LB James Laurinaitis at the St. Louis 17 and he returned it 17 yards to the San Francisco 45-yard line. The forced fumble was the third of McLeod's career and was respectively Laurinaitis' sixth recovery. Mason opened the ensuing drive with a 24-yard rush – the longest of the game – which was followed by a 22-yard touchdown catch by TE Lance Kendricks three plays later. Through the first quarter, Davis completed 7-of-8 passes for 103 yards in what was his first NFL start. The Niners got on the board on a 54-yard field goal with 7:07 remaining in the half. The score was the start of a 24-0 run by San Francisco. Before closing out the first half, 49ers QB Colin Kaepernick capped a 5-play scoring drive with an 80-yard touchdown pass to Brandon Lloyd with 0:27 remaining. Kaepernick later completed 11- and 32-yard touchdown passes to WRs Anquan Boldin and Michael Crabtree, respectively. Punts were exchanged for the majority of the fourth quarter until Greg Zuerlein converted a 38-yard field goal with 2:28 on the clock. The Rams attempted an onside kick, which was recovered by San Francisco on the St. Louis 48-yard line. The defense forced a three-and-out and the offense began their subsequent drive on their own 9 with 1:05 remaining. Cunningham ran six yards and on the next play, Davis' pass that was intended for WR Kenny Britt was intercepted and returned 20 yards for a touchdown, resulting in the game's final score.

ST. LOUIS 28, SEATTLE 26
October 13, 2014 - Edward Jones Dome - St. Louis, Mo.

WEATHER: Indoors - ATTENDANCE: 57,855 - TIME: 12:00 p.m.

Armed with a two-point lead, the Rams were 2:55 away from toppling the defending Super Bowl champion Seattle Seahawks. The Rams were faced with fourth-and-3 from their own 18 and rather than punting, Johnny Hekker threw his fifth NFL pass for an 18-yard gain to RB Benny Cunningham. Rookie RB Tre Mason closed the game with three runs for 18 yards, sealing the Rams' 28-26 victory. In just his second NFL game, Mason generated 85 yards on the ground. After the Seahawks opened the game with a 24-yard field goal on their first possession, Cunningham returned the ensuing kickoff 75 yards to the Seattle 31. The return is tied for the fifth longest in franchise history, and was the longest since Danny Amendola's return of 84 yards on Dec. 10, 2010 vs. 49ers. Cunningham's return also set up Mason's first NFL touchdown – a 6-yard rush up the middle – six plays later. Cunningham found the end zone himself atop the second quarter on a 5-yard shovel pass from QB Austin Davis. Cunningham went on to lead the team in receiving yards for the first time in a career with 46. The Rams extended their 14-3 lead midway through the second quarter with another big play on special teams. With 7:24 left in the half, Seattle punted from their own 49. The Rams dialed up a unique play for the punt and mislead the Seahawks to the left sideline where it appeared as though WR/PR Tavon Austin was fielding the punt. Meanwhile, WR Stedman Bailey caught the ball on the opposite side of the field and ran 90 yards for the six points. What was Bailey's first ever punt return, tied Dick Bass' 1961 return vs. Green Bay for third-longest in team history. Seattle's punt was a result of two sacks over the span of three plays by DT Aaron Donald and DE Eugene Sims. Pro Bowl DE Robert Quinn recorded his first sack of the season in Seattle's subsequent drive. Against Seattle, Quinn has recorded at least one sack in 6-of-7 games for a total of 8. Seattle began to chop at the Rams' 18-point lead starting at the tail of the second quarter on a 35-yard field goal with 10 seconds remaining. By the midway point, the Rams owned the 21-6 lead and marked the second time this season the Rams scored 21 points in the first half. The team also limited the Seahawks to 31 yards on the ground, while Davis was near flawless throwing, completing each of his 9 passes for a 122.7 passer rating. Seahawks QB Russell Wilson inched Seattle closer, 21-19, on a 19-yard touchdown run in the third quarter, followed by a 19-yard pass to TE Cooper Helfet on their ensuing drive at the beginning of the fourth quarter. St. Louis responded with an 8-play, 80-yard drive that concluded with Davis' second touchdown of the day – a 4-yard pass to TE Lance Kendricks. Wilson mimicked an 8-play, 80-yard drive of his own and found WR Doug Baldwin in the end zone on a 9-yard pass play with 3:22 left in regulation. Despite Wilson's 101 second-half rushing yards and Seattle's spark of scores, the Rams maintained possession of the ball for the remainder of the game and claimed their first win over the Seahawks since 2012.

ST. LOUIS 7, KANSAS CITY 34
October 26, 2014 - Arrowhead Stadium - Kansas City, Mo.

Weather: Sunny, 70° - Attendance: 75,972 - Time: 12:04 p.m.

In their first game of a three-game road tour, the St. Louis Rams lost to the Kansas City Chiefs in a contest known as the "Missouri Governor's Cup." The game marked the Rams' first regular season meeting at Arrowhead since 2002 and with the 34-7 win, the Chiefs now hold the 7-4 advantage in the all-time series. The Rams came up with their lone touchdown on the first drive following opening kickoff. RB Benny Cunningham, who entered the game leading the National Football League in kickoff return average at 36.1 ypg, put the Rams at their own 35 following a 41-yard return, which setup the eventual touchdown. The score marked the fifth time this season that the Rams scored in the first quarter. The drive lasted three minutes and four seconds, spanned six plays and was highlighted by a 43-yard catch by WR Kenny Britt and 1-yard touchdown reception by TE Lance Kendricks. Kendricks – a fourth-year pro who leads the team in TD receptions with four – has now recorded a touchdown in three consecutive games. With 2:37 on the clock, DE Robert Quinn forced his first fumble of the season (9th career), however Kansas City maintained possession as the ball bounced out of bounds on CB E.J. Gaines' attempted recovery. The score was evened at 7 following a 1-yard touchdown run by RB Jamaal Charles (Cairo Santos extra point) nearly three minutes into the second quarter. On first-and-10 in the Chiefs' ensuing possession, DE William Hayes recovered a fumble caused by mishandled handoff between QB Alex Smith and Charles at the KC 14-yard line and returned it six yards. A 14-yard Chiefs sack on third down led to a 38-yard field goal try by K Greg Zuerlein. The kick was wide right. In the subsequent series, Kanas City put together a 10-play field goal drive. In the closing plays of that drive, Quinn recorded back-to-back sacks to put Kansas City on the St. Louis 35-yard line. Quinn last accomplished the feat on Dec. 28, 2013 against the Seattle Seahawks. Santos' 53-yard kick sent the Rams into the locker room at halftime trailing by three. Upon returning to the field, Knile Davis returned the opening kickoff of the second half 99 yards to put the Chiefs up 17-7. Kanas City compiled another field-goal drive in the third quarter. The series was extended by Rams penalties and ended in a 28-yard field goal by Santos. On the second play of the fourth quarter, Charles found the end zone on a 36-yard rush, marking the Chiefs' longest play of the day. Davis later scored on a rushing touchdown with 6:32 to give the Chiefs the 27-point lead and subsequent victory.

TITLE: Quinn breaks out 'The Bernie'
BYLINE: Jim Thomas, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: October 20, 2014

Robert Quinn had gone so long without a sack it looked like he'd forgotten how to do "The Bernie" — his trademark sack dance — after he finally got one midway through the second quarter Sunday.

"It was a full-action Bernie," Quinn insisted after the Rams hung on for a 28-26 victory over Seattle at the Edward Jones Dome.

Perhaps, but it wasn't as smooth as usual. Looked a little rusty.

"It's taken a while," Quinn said. "Once Aaron (Donald) started it off, we just kind of went from there. But me personally, to get (Russell Wilson) down for the first one of the year, it's a great feeling. We've still got a few more games to go, so hopefully, it won't be the last one."

Given that Sunday was Robert Quinn bobblehead day, and his picture was on tickets for the contest, it was only fitting he broke the dry spell.

"On bobblehead day," Quinn said, smiling. "I think they should've done that the first game of the season, so I wouldn't have to wait so long to get my first one."

After only one sack in their first five games, sacks came in bunches for the Rams in the second quarter. Donald, the rookie defensive tackle, dropped Wilson for a 5-yard loss with 9½ minutes remaining before halftime.

Two plays later, defensive end Eugene Sims dropped Wilson for a 9-yard loss to force a Seattle punt — a punt that was returned 90 yards for a touchdown by Stedman Bailey on a trick play.

On Seattle's next possession, Quinn broke through for his 7-yard sack. He's had at least one sack in his past five games against the Seahawks.

"We got three of those 'S-words' today, which was good," coach Jeff Fisher said. "Those were hard to find there for a while."

But that was all the Rams would get against Wilson, even though he absorbed several hits by the pass rush and was flushed out of the pocket on numerous occasions.

"This guy (Wilson) is hard to bring down," Fisher said. "And Russell, all by himself, made this quite a game."

En route to becoming the first player in NFL history with 300 yards passing and 100 yards rushing in the same game (according to Elias Sports), Wilson was almost unstoppable in the second half.

He accounted for 264 yards of offense and three TDs in the third and fourth quarters.

TITLE: Rams QB Davis gets it done when needed most
BYLINE: Nick Wagoner, ESPN.com
DATE: October 20, 2014

After reviewing the film from last week's loss to the San Francisco 49ers, St. Louis Rams quarterback Austin Davis acknowledged he didn't do a good enough job of taking what the defense gives him.

Heading into Sunday's game against the Seattle Seahawks, Davis vowed to force the ball down the field less and take advantage of whatever the Seahawks were willing to cede. Late in the Rams' surprising 28-26 victory, Davis had done just that, almost to a fault.

In the first three quarters, Davis completed 13-of-14 for 77 yards, an average of just 5.9 yards per completion. But as Seattle mounted a late comeback and put itself in position to win the game, Davis suddenly needed to come up big. He hadn't been able to in the past three weeks after leading a late victory in his first start against Tampa Bay. But he found a way to lead an impressive 80-yard drive to give the Rams the winning points.

On that drive, Davis completed 4-of-5 passes for 66 yards and a touchdown to tight end Lance Kendricks. None of those throws were bigger than a 30-yarder to receiver Chris Givens on third-and-6 at Seattle's 44.

"We thought we'd get man-to-man coverage," Davis said. "When they need a play, they trust their guys to cover man-to-man. Chris, with his speed, just ran across the field. I trusted it and obviously, we worked the play all week, and when we needed it, he made a big play. That's how you win games. You've got to make big plays when the game is on the line. You're going to have a chance to go down and win the game at the end or not. Today, we did it."

Minutes later, Davis offered another big play when he evaded Seattle's pass rush on second-and-12 and somehow shoveled a pass to tight end Jared Cook for a 9-yard gain to put the Rams in position for the fake punt that helped seal the victory.

For the day, Davis was 18-of-21 for 152 yards and two touchdowns for a rating of 128.6. That completion percentage plus punter Johnny Hekker's completion on one attempt left the Rams converting 86.3 percent of their pass attempts, the highest allowed by the Seahawks in franchise history. The quarterback rating is the highest of Davis' young career.

The key to that success? Effectively using the middle of the field. Davis majored in risk management Sunday, throwing his 21 passes an average of just 5.5 yards down the field with 18 of those attempts coming in the middle of the field. That was a logical move considering Seattle is 20th in the league in completion percentage allowed over the middle the past two seasons and star cornerback Richard Sherman usually lurks on the outside.

It also allowed Davis to come up with big plays such as the ones to Givens. He attempted just four passes more than 10 yards down the field Sunday but he completed all of them.

Most important, Davis had no turnovers, eliminating the costly plays that have helped beat the Rams in recent weeks.

"You can't ask for more out of a guy who went from third string to now starting quarterback and playing great ball," defensive end Robert Quinn said. "We've got to be consistent week in and week out and prepare for teams and finish games."

TITLE: Rams' WR Britt: He's a player, he's a mentor, and now he has a new lease on life, By Howard Balzer
BYLINE: Howard Balzer, Fox Sports Midwest
DATE: August 14, 2014

Rams coach Jeff Fisher knew what he was getting when the Rams decided to sign wide receiver Kenny Britt to a one-year contract in the offseason. Or at least he hoped he knew what he was getting.

A first-round pick for Tennessee in 2009 when Fisher was head coach of the Titans, Britt showed great promise his first two seasons, totaling 84 catches for 1,476 yards and 12 touchdowns. But he started finding trouble off the field -- he was arrested or questioned by police on several occasions -- and he suffered a torn ACL in 2011.

His on-field performance declined as well. After producing only 11 catches and no touchdowns last season, the Titans decided they didn't want him when he became an unrestricted free agent in March.

Fisher, on the other hand, did not hesitate to bring Britt back into his fold.

"It wasn't difficult at all," Fisher said of the decision to sign Britt. "I stayed in touch with Kenny during my year off when he was rehabbing. We spent some time together and I tried to help him get some things behind him. He did. He's got everything straightened out now."

Rams receivers coach Ray Sherman said that after talking to Fisher about Britt and meeting him in person, he had no qualms about the team's free-agent acquisition.

"I talked to coach Fisher before we signed him and he filled me in on everything," Sherman said. "I spent some time when he came on a visit. We talked and had a very good visit. I felt very comfortable with him, telling him the way it's going to be here, how we were going to do things and how important it was for not only our team, but also he and I to be on the same page. We have had no issues and it's been great since then."

That sure appears to be the case. Through OTAs and training camp, Britt has displayed the receiving skills that made him a first-round draft pick, moving to the top of the Rams' depth chart at wide receiver. And the Rams have gotten a lift in another area, too. He has emerged as a leader in the receivers room at the ripe old age of 25 (he turns 26 next month).

"I feel I'm coming of age," Britt said. "I came into the league at (the age of) 20. Each year you learn more about yourself. Starting a family has helped. I'm still growing as a person and a player. I have players looking up to me as one of the older guys on the team, so I definitely had to change some of the things in my life.

"I always tell the guys: 'Ain't no place I'd rather be. We could be home wishing we had a job. Right now, we're out here playing in the NFL.'"

Britt's passion has brought an energy to the receiver group that wasn't there in the past. His impact on third-year player Brian Quick has been most evident.

"One thing about Kenny is that Kenny may make a mistake as far as an incorrect route here and there, but he does it going full speed," Fisher said. "And Brian early on in his career, if he wasn't sure, he wasn't quite at full speed. I think Brian's learned just to go. Good things happen when you're running hard."

Quick agrees, while also acknowledging that knowing the offense has eliminated a lot of the thinking he was doing.

"I just watch him," Quick said of Britt. "He moves fast, so I try to do exactly what he does. He gets me going. He brings a lot of energy to the locker room. That's what we need. But being in this offense three years, everything's slowing up for me. I'm just getting better every day. That's what I'm doing right now is growing. But, yes, it's way better not thinking; just going out there and playing knowing exactly what you're doing."

Sherman said of Britt: "He has taken Brian underneath his wing. Brian in his third year has grasped things well and he's playing faster. We were laughing about it a couple of days ago. When he was a rookie it was always, 'Quickie, what are you doing? Quickie, where are you supposed to line up?' It was always, 'Quickie, Quickie.'

"Right now, he'll come to me and say, 'Hey, I know I was supposed to do this or do that.' I don't really have to say much to him because he's doing everything the right way. There might be a technique or fundamental that I'll have to correct him on. But as far as the way he's playing and his athletic ability and what he's doing, he's been tremendous."

Quarterback Sam Bradford, who is preparing to play his first preseason game of the year after sitting out the opener, has watched Quick's growth since the receiver was taken by the Rams with the first pick of the second round of the 2012 NFL Draft.

"It's night and day with Quickie," he said. "He's always been tremendously talented. I think we're starting to see him really put everything together. I think he's had a great, great training camp. Even going back to OTAs and looking at some of the plays he's made, I think he's really developed. He's put the time in, he's worked really hard. From my standpoint, I'm glad to see that it's paying off for him."

Sherman understands that it often "takes some time" for receivers from small schools to become comfortable in an NFL offense. But he sees it happening with Quick, who played at Appalachian State.

"I'm really excited where he is right now, the way he's practicing, the way he's playing; it's really going to be a big plus for us," Sherman said. "He's an excellent blocker, tremendous speed and size, and very good hands. We're going to continue to get him some work in these preseason games and see what happens."

Britt's role as mentor has extended beyond Quick. He has had an impact on the entire receiving unit.
"He's brought leadership, brought toughness, brought experience," Sherman said. "He's really been a great addition not only to this team, but in my meeting room. He's really working very diligently as far as picking up things and trying to grasp it as quickly as possible. He's really doing a good job of it."

For Britt, he relishes taking on that leadership role even while still working to absorb the Rams' offense. For him, his chance with the Rams is like a new lease on life -- a chance to resurrect his career.

"This is a young group," Britt said with considerable understatement. "I know how to run routes better than they do, being able to see coverages and how to run certain routes against different coverages. I had to take leadership in the room being a guy six years in the league, and coach had expectations of me to do it.

"But I'm still learning from these guys. The offensive coordinator is showing me a lot, the receivers coach is showing me a lot. It's like I'm a rookie all over again."

Like a bold rookie, to be sure. His expectations for this receiver group are high.

Said Britt: "Once we get this offense down pat and we're on the same page ... I'm saying right now (we can be) one of the best in the league."

TITLE: Barksdale a bedrock for Rams' O-Line
BYLINE: Nick Wagoner, ESPN.com
DATE: September 20, 2014

Little more than a year after the Oakland Raiders used a third-round draft pick on offensive tackle Joe Barksdale, they released him.

It was Sept. 26, 2012, just one of a handful of days over the past couple of years now permanently etched in Barksdale's mind. The next was Sept. 27, 2012, a day later when the St. Louis Rams claimed him off waivers.

Barksdale arrived in St. Louis with enough raw talent to develop into the bedrock of an often in flux offensive line that he is today but without any of the self-belief necessary to get there.

"When I got here, I was a recently cut former draft pick with no confidence, not many technical skills," Barksdale said. "But I believe I'm here for a reason and I'm so happy to be here. I do believe that everything did happen for a reason, when it was supposed to and how it was supposed to."

What's happened in the nearly two years since Barksdale arrived in St. Louis is more than anyone knows. It's easy to look at the resume he's compiled and see a young player simply emerging as a solid right tackle providing durability to a line in desperate need of it.

But the road from there to here hasn't been as easy as it might seem.

When the Rams claimed Barksdale in 2012, they were simply searching for help on the offensive line after some injuries had struck. That's been a familiar refrain in recent seasons.

Offensive line coach Paul Boudreau saw the 6-foot-5, 326-pound Barksdale as his next great reclamation project, if only he could get Barksdale to have the same belief.

For as much work as Barksdale needed on footwork, hand placement and understanding of angles, he needed regular reminders he could get there.

"His thing is more confidence in everything," Boudreau said. "Joe is his own worst critic. He's his own worst enemy. I tell him I will do all the worrying for you and you get out there and you play."

That confidence came quickly for Barksdale, who said he genuinely started buying into Boudreau's belief when he started at left tackle against Green Bay on Oct. 21, 2012. He started again the following week in London against New England and graded out well in both games.

After starting those two games and appearing in four more, Barksdale returned in 2013 primed to be the primary swing tackle behind Rodger Saffold and Jake Long. He spent part of his offseason working with Hall of Fame Rams offensive tackle Jackie Slater; something he repeated this summer, and came back ready for whatever role was needed.

As it turned out, projected right tackle Saffold suffered an injury early in the preseason and again in Week 2 of the regular season. Before Barksdale was to start the next week against Dallas, tragedy struck.

Charles Fobbs, who Barksdale calls a mentor, second father, brother and coach since he was 13 years old, died in a car accident before the Rams played the Cowboys.

Barksdale was devastated by the loss and attended the funeral back home in Michigan in search of some peace of mind. When he returned to St. Louis, he found solace on the football field, in his teammates and from his coaches.

Boudreau, in particular, knew what Barksdale was going through. His father had passed away not long before Fobbs, and Boudreau was still reeling from his own loss. Boudreau offered daily encouragement and reminded Barksdale that the best way to get through a tough time is simply to do it.

"I said you have a job to do and when you're at work, it might be the best thing for you, it might be the best therapy for you," Boudreau said. "He kind of knew it was somebody walking his shoes. It's going to always hurt and I said the anniversary of that will be the same thing for you and when you go back to Michigan you'll see his family and it will be a tough time for you, but I think in his case, he's grown up more than anything since he's been a Ram."

With each practice and game, Barksdale grew as a player as he dedicated himself to improving. By the time the season was through, Barksdale had started 13 games and played in all 16. For what it's worth, Pro Football Focus graded him as the team's second most productive lineman.

Amidst the revolving doors at other positions on the line, Barksdale remains steadfast on the right side. Boudreau points out Barksdale is no longer dwelling on mistakes. Barksdale has even set big goals for himself, starting with winning a Super Bowl, making the Pro Bowl and eventually the Hall of Fame.

In this training camp, Barksdale has been the one constant on the offensive line, playing with the starters at the same position every day.

"Joe's done a great job," coach Jeff Fisher said. "Joe's stepped in and played. He's played both sides for us, settled in on the right side. He's reliable, dependable, everything you want at right tackle. It was great timing for us, great timing for Joe, when he was let go and we had an opportunity to bring him in and he's done a great job."

After the season, Barksdale is scheduled to become an unrestricted free agent. More important, he's also in the midst of planning a wedding. He says he spends much more time thinking of the latter than the former when he's not practicing his newest hobby, the electric guitar.

Given his druthers, Barksdale would like to stay in St. Louis.

"Definitely," Barksdale said. "They gave me a second chance."

TITLE: Fisher makes it official: Davis is the starter
BYLINE: Jim Thomas, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: October 2, 2014

With the bye week come and gone, and 13 weeks of uninterrupted football ahead for the Rams, coach Jeff Fisher felt it was time to make things official.

He called quarterbacks Austin Davis and Shaun Hill separately into his office Wednesday morning, telling Davis he was starting and Hill he was not.

It was absolutely no surprise to Rams Park regulars. Not only has Davis played well — surprisingly well — in his starts against Tampa Bay and Dallas, but he has been getting basically all the reps with the starters all along.

Those two facts spoke volumes, and meant more than anything Fisher put out for public consumption. Fisher didn't have a change of heart, or realize the error of his ways. There was no error in his ways; Davis simply played too well to go back to the bench once Hill was healthy.

Fisher tries to be very loyal to his players; the last thing he wants to do is react in knee-jerk fashion to everything that happens on the football field, good or bad. He pretty much had his mind made up on Davis after the Tampa Bay game, but wanted to see a little more.

He saw much more than a "little more" against Dallas. So after getting Davis a couple more practices with the starting offense during the bye week, and with Hill healthy from the quad strain he suffered in the opener against Minnesota, Fisher went public with his decision: In Austin We Trust.

"We're going to go ahead and start Austin for the remainder of the season," Fisher said after Wednesday's practice. "It's not that Shaun lost the job, it's that Austin earned an opportunity to keep it.

"Shaun understands, he's a team player, he's ready to come in at a moment's notice. He is healthy enough to play this week."

As might be expected, Hill wasn't doing cartwheels over Wednesday's developments. But true to form, he uttered no complaints.

"Obviously, it's frustrating," Hill said. "But I understand it. (Fisher)'s got a decision to make, and made a decision based on what he felt was best for the team. The team comes first. I'm a professional, I'll come to work every day, and continue to try to help this team any way I can."

At age 34, Hill had a rare chance to start all 16 games for the Rams following Sam Bradford's season-ending knee injury against Cleveland in the third preseason game. But then came the quad injury against the Vikings.
"It's a tough league, for tough-minded people," Hill said. "And I put myself in that category."

Hill said he could sense this was coming during the bye-week practices. Probably because Davis continued to get all the reps.

As for Davis, his increasingly incredible journey continues. Twelve months ago, he was a voluntary high school football coach at Westminster Christian Academy in suburban St. Louis. Six weeks ago, he was the Rams' fourth-string quarterback, uncertain if he would make it to September.

Now, he's the starter. And not just a week-to-week starter.

"My parting comments with Austin was I told him not to look over his shoulders," Fisher said. "So he's gonna take this team and run with it."

And that meant a lot to Davis, 25.

"Obviously, I'm excited for the opportunity," Davis said. "Coach Fish was very adamant not to look over my shoulder. We all kind of know his philosophy. He picks the guy and he sticks with him."

Fisher tried to stick with Hill, but saw too much from Davis.

"I have to do what's best for the football team, and in my opinion (Davis starting) is what's best for the football team," Fisher said. "We brought Shaun in here to back up, and I had all the confidence in the world in him.

"Who knows what would've happened had he not pulled his quad in Week 1? But you can't go there right now. You have to base these decisions on what's in front of us and what's happened just recently."

What's happened recently is Davis guided the Rams to a 19-17 comeback victory at Tampa in Game 2, making several clutch throws in the fourth quarter of a see-saw contest. Against Dallas, Davis tossed three touchdown passes, threw for 327 yards, and helped the Rams pile up 448 yards — their highest total in a regulation contest in 30 games.

Davis leads the NFL in completion percentage (72.3) and ranks sixth in yards per attempt (8.02). How do you turn your back on that? The answer is: You don't.

"Really nothing changes for me," Davis said. "I don't want to get to the mindset of looking ahead. We'll just keep doing what we're doing, take one game at a time, and I think it'll be much more manageable that way."

Davis was barely out of his meeting with Fisher when he told his wife. "She likes to hear the news first," Davis said, smiling. "She's excited, but she knows it brings on a little more responsibility."

Davis' teammates were anything but surprised, and totally supportive, when quizzed about the QB news.

"I think he's earned the opportunity," wide receiver Austin Pettis said. "I think Coach is right to continue with him. He's got the hot hand right now. So we just ride him out, and see how well he can keep on doing."

And from Kenny Britt: "As a receiver group, we're definitely comfortable with him back there, and him in the huddle. From the first and second (starts) you could tell that his confidence level was out of the roof. He's taken control in the huddle. So we're behind him 100 percent."

TITLE: Jeff Fisher's mettle lifts St. Louis to big win over Seahawks
BYLINE: Michael Silver, NFL.com
DATE: October 20, 2014

The climax was playing out like another Edward Jones Dome nightmare, the home team on the verge of surrendering what was left of a once-healthy advantage and suffering another disheartening defeat.

Like everyone in the stadium Sunday, not to mention millions of television viewers, St. Louis Rams coach Jeff Fisher could see the way this one was heading, what with his win-starved team clinging to a two-point lead and about to punt the ball back to the Seattle Seahawks and their red-hot quarterback, Russell Wilson, from deep in its own territory with just under three minutes remaining.

It was the perfect time for a stunning plot twist -- and who better to provide one than The 'Stache?

In January of 2000, Fisher brought us The Music City Miracle, giving his Tennessee Titans an unfathomable playoff victory over the Buffalo Bills.

Last May, Fisher electrified the Rams' unsuspecting draft room -- and made an historic move no one saw coming -- when he selected Michael Sam, who was bidding to become the NFL's first openly gay player.

At Sunday's pivotal moment, as is his custom, Fisher kept even his closest confidantes in the dark. When he sent in the fake-punt call on fourth-and-3 from the Rams' 18, only a dozen others were in on the audacious ploy: special teams coach John Fassel and the 11 men in the huddle.

Music City Miracle, meet the St. Louis Surprise.

Punter Johnny Hekker took the snap, waited for Benny Cunningham to flash open on the left and delivered a short pass that the running back caught and turned into an 18-yard gain. The Rams (2-4) would get another first down and kill the clock -- though not until sweating out a Tre Mason fumble and ensuing scrum -- to close out a 28-26 victory over the defending Super Bowl champs.

It's not too much of a stretch to say that the Rams, who've struggled in the wake of quarterback Sam Bradford's second torn ACL in less than a year, may have salvaged their season by upsetting the Seahawks (3-3). Having blown leads of 21 (to the Dallas Cowboys) and 14 (to the San Francisco 49ers) in their previous two home games, the notion of squandering a 21-3 edge to Seattle was one that Fisher couldn't stomach.

In fact, before the Rams ran their first-down play from their own 11 on that final possession, Fisher approached Fassel and told him to "make sure (Hekker's) ready" because a fake punt might be in the works on fourth down.

"They had such momentum," Fisher explained on his drive home from the Dome, his voice a mixture of relief and excitement. "And look -- Russell Wilson's really good. We had them down, and he took it over. So no, we wanted no part of him at the end."

Wilson, in the wake of a wild week that featured the stunning trade of playmaker Percy Harvin to the New York Jets and a broken foot suffered by fullback Derrick Coleman in pregame warmups, was superlative in the second half, finishing with 313 passing yards and 106 rushing yards on seven carries. Game manager? Yeah, right.

St. Louis, riding with a pair of former third-stringers in the backfield -- quarterback Austin Davis (18 of 21, 152 yards, two touchdowns, no interceptions) and Mason (18 carries, 85 yards, one TD) -- needed a full-squad effort to prevail.

And, amazingly, the fake punt wasn't even St. Louis' most impressive special-teams stunt. That came midway through the second quarter when the Seahawks, trailing 14-3, punted from their own 49 -- and the Rams countered with a well-rehearsed ensemble performance that turned deception into an art form.

With Jon Ryan's high punt sailing toward the right (from the Rams' perspective) sideline, return man Tavon Austin and nine other Rams drifted to the left to set up a phantom runback. As Austin pretended to wait for a ball that was headed to the opposite hash mark, the Seahawks dutifully followed, buying the ruse even as he fell backward for effect, presumably gunning for that Oscar nomination.

Meanwhile, Rams receiver Stedman Bailey tracked the ball, made a nice over-the-shoulder catch and, still largely undetected, turned and raced down the right sideline for a 90-yard score.

"What you have to understand is that they're so good on special teams, and that's what allowed us to run that play," Fisher said. "Their punter is money -- we knew if they were between the 45-yard lines he'd hit it end over end with great hang time, and put it on the numbers. We needed the kind of kick that would (theoretically) force a fair catch, and we knew he'd give it to us, and that's why it worked.

"We scripted that play in practice and ran it over and over, and it pretty much played out that way. Tavon did a little too much -- the falling over backwards, I don't know where he gets that -- but Sted made a sweet catch, and then we got him some help and pulled it off."

Facing the prospect of having to defend Wilson on a potential game-winning drive, the Rams needed just a little bit of help -- and Fisher gave it to them, in the form of the Hekker to Cunningham completion that might have kept their playoff dreams flickering.

"Hey," Fisher said, "whatever it takes."

For this team, at this moment, it's a legitimate mantra -- and there's nothing fake about it.

TITLE: Hayes rady to step in for his friend, Long
BYLINE: Nick Wagoner, ESPN.com
DATE: September 12, 2014

St. Louis Rams defensive lineman William Hayes was a hit in the team's locker room from the day he first arrived in St. Louis back in 2012. He immediately grew close with most of his teammates, especially on the defensive line.

In his nearly three years with the Rams, there's nobody Hayes has grown closer to than fellow defensive end Chris Long. When the news came Wednesday that Long would need ankle surgery that would keep him out for eight to 10 weeks, nobody took the news harder than Hayes.

"He's one of my closest friends on the team so it's kind of hard when you hear he is not going to be here but we've got a next-man-up philosophy around here," Hayes said.

As it turns out, the next man up in Long's absence is Hayes. In Hayes, Long's left defensive end spot lands in more than capable hands. Amongst the free agents whiffs the Rams have had since coach Jeff Fisher and general manager Les Snead took over, Hayes has been on the opposite end of the spectrum as a true diamond in the rough find.

Hayes first signed with the Rams in 2012, following Fisher to St. Louis from Tennessee, where he was once a fourth-round pick out of Winston-Salem State. In the time since, he's become the defensive line's ultimate Swiss Army Knife, providing a stout presence against the run from his end position while offering pass rush ability from the interior.

Over those two season in St. Louis, Hayes has 63 tackles and 12 sacks while working in a reserve role.

The other side to Long's absence is the loss of his fiery brand of leadership. That's another area where Hayes can help provide some cover. Most of the other defensive linemen tend to err on the quiet side but Hayes is the same player who smashed a mirror in the team's locker room after last season's loss to Tennessee, a blow that led to him getting stitches in his arm.

Even without Long, the Rams are confident in what Hayes brings to the table.

"We know that Will Hayes can get the job done," defensive tackle Kendall Langford said. "Whoever we put out there on the field, we are a brotherhood of men and we trust in each other that we'll get the job done. I don't think it will be a drop off."

While Hayes figures to get the first shot at replacing Long, it's important to note that it will take more than just one player to fill the void. Hayes is still working his way back into football shape from a trio of offseason surgeries, the most serious of which was a hip procedure. He did not play in any preseason games and was admittedly rusty in his return to game action last week.

Likewise, the Rams would like to limit his snaps when possible to keep him fresh, as evidenced by his 27 snaps against Minnesota last week. That means the Rams will turn to fellow veteran backup Eugene Sims and undrafted rookie Ethan Westbrooks to ease the burden.

For his part, the always motivated Hayes has even more motivation to play well in Long's stead. He's replacing a good player but an even better friend.

"I hate the idea that Chris got hurt but at the end of the day, things happen and the next man has to step up," Hayes said. "I just don't want to be a drop off this week, that's one of the big things. I feel like he would be disappointed in me if I was to go out there this week and just really [struggle]."

TITLE: Rams' McSafeties getting their act down
BYLINE: Jim Thomas, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: September 17, 2014

That little shimmy by free safety Rodney McLeod after his second-quarter interception was no impromptu celebration.
"It's just a little dance that me and T.J. (McDonald) put together right before the game," he said.

Apparently, it's part of the weekly pregame ritual for the Rams' McSafeties. It's all about being prepared for success.
"If we make plays, this is what we're gonna do today," McLeod explained. "It's just something that we've got going on."

McLeod told McDonald before Sunday's 19-17 victory over Tampa Bay that he was going to get an interception.
Hard to explain but he just had that feeling.

"I thought if we got good pressure on (Josh) McCown, he'd most likely to throw one up," McLeod said.
McCown, the Tampa Bay quarterback, did just that early in the second quarter of a 7-7 game. The Bucs were knocking on the door with a first-and-goal from the St. Louis 9.

But linebacker Jo-Lonn Dunbar flushed McCown out of the pocket on a blitz, and then linebacker James Laurinaitis came bearing down on McCown. Instead of taking the sack, or throwing the ball away, McCown threw it up for grabs in the general direction of wide receiver Vincent Jackson.

There was just one problem with that decision: Jackson was being double-covered, with cornerback Janoris Jenkins behind him and McLeod in front.

"He did a crossing route," McLeod said. "Basically I just read the quarterback. He made a bad decision and James got good pressure on him."

It wasn't an easy interception. The ball was thrown low and away, and McLeod lunged to keep it off the ground.
"Gotta give credit to the hands, the gloves. Fresh gloves," McLeod said, laughing.
McLeod wears a new set of gloves each week on game day.

"That was a big point (in the game)," McDonald said of his teammate's play. "They were close to scoring, we don't give up any points. We give the ball back to our offense, get a lot of juice, a little momentum going."

It marked the first interception, and only takeaway, for the Rams this season. Without McLeod's INT, the third of his three-year NFL career, the outcome might've been different. Even if Tampa had to settle for a field goal, that might have been enough in what turned out to be a two-point game.

McLeod joined the Rams in 2012, the first year of the Jeff Fisher-Les Snead regime, as an undrafted rookie out of Virginia. He led the Rams in special teams tackles that year (16), then took advantage of preseason injuries to Darian Stewart to earn a job at safety in 2013. He started all 16 games, recording 87 tackles and two interceptions.

Even so, the general consensus this past offseason was that the Rams needed to upgrade the position, find a free safety with more range.

Granted, it's just two games into the season, but McLeod is proving doubters wrong. He has shown improved range and has taken quickly to defensive coordinator Greg Williams' system.

"I think it just comes with experience, and the coaching we get from OTAs to training camp with Gregg coming in, and Chuck (Cecil), and all those guys just getting us right," McLeod said.

Cecil is the Rams' secondary coach.

Even before the start of the regular season, Williams has been impressed with McLeod.

"Rodney has just been one of the most pleasant surprises for me — his instincts on playing the free safety position," Williams told the Post-Dispatch in a late-August interview.

"Chuck Cecil did a good job talking to me about him when I first got here. Chuck was very high on him and wanted me to make sure that I was patient with the evaluation process on him. I think Rodney does a phenomenal job on picking up the nuances of how we want our safeties to play."

Williams continued: "The free safety and the middle linebacker have to be a direct extension of the play-caller and what we do. He's sharp intellectually. He's sharp in big-picture understanding of the game."

An added bonus is that McLeod has become a more aggressive tackler this season than he showed previously, whether it be in coverage or in run support.

"I just think it's the mentality that Gregg instilled in us from Day 1," McLeod. "You know the mentality that he has."

Yeah, if you're coming in this neighborhood, you're going to have to pay a toll.

"There's been nothing but good stuff going on from Day 1 in this system," McLeod said.
It's a system not too different from the scheme run in 2012, when Williams was serving his one-year "Bountygate" suspension and his son Blake was de facto defensive coordinator.

Now in their second season starting together, McLeod and strong safety McDonald are developing a good rapport on the field.

They complement each other well, with McLeod usually playing deep in coverage, and McDonald frequently playing near the line of scrimmage, or blitzing, or covering tight ends.

"With T.J., what I don't have, he has," McLeod said. "We just work well together. It just works out."
Fisher likes the way things are working out so far.

"Both the safeties have played very well the last two weeks," Fisher said. "Now, we missed some tackles, but everybody's going to miss tackles. ... But I think considering where we were last year, they've come a long, long way. I'm happy for them."

TITLE: 'Mountaineer' play special to Bailey
BYLINE: Joe Lyons, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: October 20, 2014

Rams receiver Stedman Bailey isn't likely to forget his first career punt return. And neither will anyone else who watched it Sunday as the Rams defeated the Seattle Seahawks 28-26 at the Edward Jones Dome.

With the Rams up 14-3 midway through the second quarter and Seattle punting from its own 49, Rams special teams coordinator John Fassel called for "Mountaineer."

"It's a designed play that we actually put in this week," Bailey explained. "Coach Bones (Fassel) saw the Bears try it a few years back — it worked for them, too, but it was called back on a penalty. He noticed that when (Seattle's) punter tried to sky it, to pin us deep, the punt always ended up in pretty much the same spot."

So with almost all of the Rams, including return man Tavon Austin, racing toward the left sideline — and drawing the pursuit of the the the Seahawks — Bailey peeled off from his spot on the opposite side of the field, came up with an over-the-shoulder catch, turned and raced 90 yards down the sideline for a touchdown that pushed the Rams' lead to 21-3.

"Just a dream come true, really," said Bailey, who had never fielded a punt in a game before. "Honestly didn't think it'd work as well as it did, but our guys, especially Tavon, did a great job of selling it. They all went to the right and (the Seahawks) went that way, too.

"I caught the ball, turned around and saw a lot of green grass and a couple of our guys in front of me. Then I just ran for my life."

The misdirection could not have worked any better.

"We practiced it all week," tight end and special teamer Cory Harkey said. "When the coaches dialed it up, we were all pretty pumped."

Running back and special teamer Chase Reynolds agreed: "When we watched the tape and saw everybody from the coverage team drawn away from the ball, it was crazy. It seemed like my guy was thinking about going to the left, so I really had to overplay to the right and he ended up following. Their guys just kind of followed the herd, I guess.

"It seemed like everything on that play came together for us and 'Sted' did the rest."

Rams coach Jeff Fisher said he discussed the play with Fassel on Wednesday, worked on it through the rest of the week and decided to give it a shot with 7:24 to play before halftime.

"It was an automatic based on field position," Fisher said. "When they saw Tavon running over, they probably thought the ball was mis-hit. The down side was that (Bailey) doesn't catch it, the ball goes in the end zone (and) it's a touchback or it's downed. The up side was we felt like if (Bailey) was able to field it, then we had a chance to probably put some points on the board."

Bailey credited fellow ex-University of West Virginia Mountaineer Austin for making the play work, while Austin deflected the praise to Fassel.

"I feel like we have the best special teams coach in the NFL," Austin said. "He drew it up and got us to believe it could work. Everybody worked together to make it work and 'Sted' finished it off with a great return."

But the "Mountaineer" return wasn't the only game-changing effort turned in by the Rams special teams on Sunday.

After Seattle opened the scoring with a Steven Hauschka field goal, Benny Cunningham returned the ensuing kickoff 75 yards to the Seahawks' 31. Six plays later, rookie Tre Mason picked up his first NFL touchdown with a 6-yard scoring run.

"Tre got the first defender, giving me a chance to make a move, and the next thing I remember is Cody Davis making a block that opened up some more space. From there, I just took it as far as I could," Cunningham said said. "Any time you can make play like that, a play that can provide a spark for the offense, it feels incredible."

Cunningham, who led the Rams in receiving with five catches for 46 yards, hauled in a 5-yard pass from Austin Davis for a second-quarter touchdown that put the Rams on top 14-3 and added a 18-yard catch on a pass from punter Johnny Hekker on a fourth-and-3 fake from the Rams' 18 with just under three minutes left. That allowed the Rams to keep the ball and eventually close out the two-point victory over the reigning Super Bowl champs.

"You have to tip your hat to Coach Fisher for having the (guts) to make tough calls like that, knowing the game was on the line," Bailey said. "He showed faith in us and we went out and we executed."

Cunningham said the pass from Hekker, with Bailey and Reynolds running clear-out routes, is one that is practiced regularly at Rams Park.

"Johnny and I stay after practice to work on that play — 10 reps, five to each side of the field," Cunningham said. "I think it's great that the coaches had faith in us to try something like that."

Cunningham felt like Sunday's special-teams' effort was owed to Fassel.

"It's a proud moment when you can go out and make plays for a coach who works so hard for you," the second-year pro from Middle Tennessee State said.

ST. LOUIS RAMS FEATURE CLIPS

TITLE: Harkey's toughness energizes Rams
BYLINE: Nick Wagoner, ESPN.com
DATE: September 17, 2014

The St. Louis Rams have already lost key players such as quarterback Sam Bradford, and defensive end Chris Long to serious injuries that will require rehabilitation.

Bradford is out for the season with a knee injury, and Long is on injured reserve but designated to return after ankle surgery. But neither of those injuries looked as bad when they happened as the one tight end Cory Harkey suffered on Sunday in Tampa Bay.

Late in the third quarter, Harkey caught a pass from quarterback Austin Davis in the left flat, but Tampa Bay safety Dashon Goldson quickly closed in on Harkey and hit him square in the left knee. Harkey managed to limp off the field, but the hit looked bad enough that it could keep him out for a long time.

"That was a rough hit," Rams coach Jeff Fisher said. "Now when you saw it, that's a byproduct of the league and the rule changes. Goldson's a good football player, and that's one that you just don't like to see. We feared, I feared for the worst on it until he got to the sideline."

For his part, Harkey said even he was shaken up by the hit.

"Obviously, it was a shock. It was scary, but I knew once I was able to get up and kind of walk off that I was going to be OK, which is a good thing," Harkey said. "And God is looking out for me. But yeah, it was scary."

When Harkey returned to the sideline, he wasted no time lobbying to return to the game, a campaign that proved successful. He was on the field on the next drive and caught a pass for 6 yards about 15 minutes (in game time) after taking the hit.

That Harkey returned and contributed was a surprise to everyone except those who have seen him go from undrafted rookie to a valuable, multipurpose piece of the offense -- and one of the team's resident tough guys.

"We knew, we knew Cory was a tough guy," Fisher said. "He loves the game, and the docs felt structurally he was going to be okay. We were going to change some personnel groups and Cory said, 'No, don't change them. I'm going back in,' so very impressed with him."

TITLE: Westbrooks getting his feet wet on defense
BYLINE: Jim Thomas, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: September 25, 2014

Even when he was inactive for the season opener against Minnesota, undrafted rookie Ethan Westbrooks tried to make the most of the opportunity to be on an NFL sideline.
"It's not like you've got your piña colada and cigar just enjoying life," Westbrooks said. "It's definitely still a work day."

So he took mental reps on what was happening that day, and went over his keys from the practice week to see if they held up during the actual game.

Even if he had a piña colada and cigar working that day, he'd have had to put them down. Because of defensive end Chris Long's foot injury, Westbrooks was fast-forwarded into the line rotation against Tampa Bay and Dallas.

"He's averaging 15-20 plays a game, which is good," coach Jeff Fisher said. "He'll help keep Will (Hayes) fresh, and we need that."

Westbrooks was in for 16 plays against the Cowboys and 17 in Game 2 against Tampa — roughly 30 percent of the defensive snaps in both games. He had one tackle against Tampa, and was credited with four tackles — including one for loss — against Dallas.

"He's coming along," Fisher said. "He's got the versatility. We didn't move him around inside like we did in the preseason but Mike (Waufle)'s done a good job with him."

Waufle is the Rams' defensive line coach. Westbrooks, a raw but talented prospect from NCAA Division II West Texas A&M, probably would've been on the pregame inactive list much of the 2014 season after beating out Missouri's Michael Sam for the final spot on the 53-man roster coming out of the preseason.

But Long's injury has accelerated the learning process.

"It's been good; just continuing to learn new things," Westbrooks said. "I'm getting more acclimated with the whole defense, the speed of the game. Really starting to put an emphasis on my technique from Coach Wauf and Chris. Even though he's out, Chris has been helping me a tremendous amount in the room and on the field."

TITLE: Rams' Donald off to a promising start
BYLINE: Joe Lyons, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: September 26, 2014

It's only three games, but it's safe to say that Rams rookie defensive tackle Aaron Donald has made a favorable first impression.

Selected with the 13th overall pick in May, the 6-foot-1, 285-pounder from the University of Pittsburgh ranks second among the team's defensive linemen with 16 overall tackles. He also has a sack and three tackles for loss.

"I've been able to make a few plays, which is good, but my focus is still working every day to try and get better,'' Donald said following practice earlier this week. "The game at this level is faster, much faster, and the guys you're playing against are a lot better. The offensive linemen are a lot more athletic and can move a lot better.

"The big thing for me, I think, is working to become more consistent.''

Fellow defensive tackle Kendall Langford, in his seventh season, has been impressed by Donald.

"We knew he was a guy who'd won numerous awards in college; we knew he was a football player,'' Langford said. "His first step, his quickness off the ball, is unbelievable, and he's also strong. He's just a good football player.

"And he's stepped right in. For a lot of guys making the step from college, there's an adjustment period. But Aaron came in and just kept it going.''

Donald said that being accepted right away by the defensive line made him feel comfortable — and responsible.

"When I go out there, I have to show up. I want to make plays,'' the 23-year-old said. "I'm learning a lot from the guys around me and I want those guys to know that they can count on me and trust me to go out and do my job.''

TITLE: Tick bite sent Rams' Wells to intensive care
BYLINE: Jim Thomas, St. Louis Post-Dispatch
DATE: September 30, 2014

Center Scott Wells didn't finish the final week of Rams practices in June, then missed a good portion of training camp. It was thought that he had some kind of virus, and lost some weight.

Turns out it was much worse than that, and could have been fatal had it not been treated in time.

"I had a bacterial infection from a tick bite," Wells told the Post-Dispatch. "It's called ehrlichia. It's similar to Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever. I was in intensive care for four days that last week'' of offseason practices.

Wells said it started with flu symptoms, then the illness escalated quickly.

"At first, it seemed like a head cold," Wells said. "Congestion. I had an ear that was stopped up, but it wasn't infected. I would have night sweats, chills, body aches — all the same things consistent with the flu. But it wasn't flu season."

He was being treated for the symptoms, basically as if it were some sort of virus or flu. But when Wells' urine was brown — dark brown — he knew something was wrong.

He was admitted to a hospital for tests on the Wednesday afternoon of the last week of practices in June.

"Wednesday night I was put in ICU," Wells said. "From the way (doctors) explained it to me, it attacks your bone marrow and starts to shut down your immune system so you can't fight it off. Then your organs start to shut down trying to fight it off.

"So it went from what seemed to be just a cold virus, flu-like symptoms, to really sick really fast."

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the fatality rate for ehrlichia is 1.8 percent — or nearly one in 50.

Even before the blood test results came back, he was given antibiotics to treat ehrlichia. On the second day of receiving antibiotics, Wells said his temperature reached 104.5 degrees

"Then it came down pretty fast," he said. "I was on antibiotics for another 10 days. The antibiotics made everything taste funny. So I didn't have an appetite, lost a whole bunch of weight in the hospital."

Wells dropped 20 pounds during the four days he was in the hospital.

People often think of tick bites occurring in the outdoors.

Not necessarily so.

We spray our yard, and our pets weren't at home," Wells said. "They were back in Tennessee (which is where Wells is from). I mean, you can get a tick anywhere. You can get a tick in a grocery store. And the one that causes this is a small tick. They said it's like a freckle when they bite you. Half the people that get it don't even recognize it. They never find it."

Once training camp started, the Rams took a cautious approach to working Wells back into the practice routine and into preseason action because he had lost all that weight just a month before the start of camp.

"It took some time to gain the weight back," Wells said. "I was in great shape when I got sick, and the doctor said that's what helped me get through it. But I'm healthy now. I'm fine now. There's no residual long-term effects from it. Everything is normal."

Because of the severity and the unusual nature of the illness, Rams coach Jeff Fisher didn't want to reveal the information, basically leaving that up to Wells.

Now that he has been back in the lineup for the first three games of the regular season, Wells had no problem speaking of his ordeal.

"To me it's important to educate the public on this, because everybody knows (tick bites) exist," Wells said. "But until you're hit with it, you don't really understand how significant it is.

"It changed my whole perspective. If any of my kids, anybody I know, gets flu symptoms and it's not flu season, check it out. Because you'd rather know early than late."

For Wells, it was another setback — a potentially life-threatening setback — since signing a free-agent contract with the team before the 2012 season.

Wells, who had been durable during his time in Green Bay, suffered a fractured fibula last Dec. 1, missing the final four games of the season.

In 2012, a broken foot in the season opener sidelined Wells for nine games.

This summer's tick-borne illness resulted in Wells sitting out the exhibition opener, although he did play in Game 2 (against Green Bay) and Game 3 (Cleveland) of the preseason.

TITLE: Tre Mason adds to Rams' running back committee

By his count, it had been 10 months since St. Louis Rams running back Tre Mason had played in a regular-season football game.

So when the opportunity finally presented itself on Monday night against the San Francisco 49ers, Mason made the most of his limited chances.

"It was great to be out there the other night, get my feet wet and get back to playing football," Mason said. "It was pretty frustrating, but I do what I'm told. I just had to wait it out. It was waiting, and then it was time. It was time, my name was called, and I had to show what I could do."

With special teamer/running back Chase Reynolds out because of a hip ailment, Mason found himself on the active game day roster for the first time in his young career. The Rams didn't have grand plans for him, but they wanted to work him in the mix with fellow backs Zac Stacy, Benny Cunningham and receiver Tavon Austin.

Mason played nine snaps but got to touch the ball on six of them and made something positive happen on nearly all of those half-dozen touches. He finished with five carries for 40 yards and added another catch for 12 more yards. His 24-yard run early in the game was the Rams' first rush of 20 more yards on the season and might have gone longer had Mason not run into receiver Brian Quick.

"I liked the way he handled his first opportunity and made some explosive plays," coach Jeff Fisher said.

Of course, Mason didn't make it through without at least one noticeable hiccup. As you'd expect from a player who hadn't played much in the first four games largely because he wasn't up to speed in pass protection, Mason missed on one of his chances in pass protection.

But Mason says he's progressed quite a bit in that area from the time he left Auburn, where he was rarely asked to pickup blitzes.

"I came a long way," Mason said. "Most of the time you probably weren't asked to do much in college and stuff like that so it will probably be something they have to key on when they get here but definitely attack it.

"I'm getting a hold of things and knowing my targets and where to be. It's getting a lot easier. The game is slowing down, and I'm ready to roll."

That part of the game will be important for Mason moving forward. Earning the trust of the coaching staff for something like pass protection goes a long way in determining how many snaps a running back will get on game day. Even more important, if a team knows a back is not capable of holding up in pass protection, it can telegraph what the offense is trying to do.

"It's critical, obviously, got to be able [to be] in there in both situations," offensive coordinator Brian Schottenheimer said. "We certainly have that ability with Tre. We trust him. Again, he's really gotten better. If you can only do one thing then certainly it's a big tell for the defense. He's a guy that wasn't asked to do that a whole lot at Auburn, but he's picked it up in a hurry working with [running backs] Coach [Ben] Sirmans. Again, it's easier in a classroom then when you've got people moving around, that's the hard part."

But even with a miscue or two in pass protection, there's no denying that Mason was the most effective of the Rams' running backs against the Niners. Adding Mason to the mix, the Rams have now offered at least a handful of carries to Stacy, Cunningham, Austin, Trey Watts and Mason. That approach hasn't been an overwhelming success for a run game that ranks 18th in yards per game (106) and 19th in yards per rush (4.14).

Stacy's 19 carries against Tampa Bay in Week 2 are the most by a Rams runner this year, and aside from that, no back has had more than a dozen opportunities in a game. Earlier this week, Fisher said he was OK with continuing the running-back-by-committee approach. Schottenheimer echoed those sentiments with a caveat.

Now that he has been back in the lineup for the first three games of the regular season, Wells had no problem speaking of his ordeal.

"To me it's important to educate the public on this, because everybody knows (tick bites) exist," Wells said. "But until you're hit with it, you don't really understand how significant it is.
